

Teaching Secondary Science Masterclass with Adam Boxer

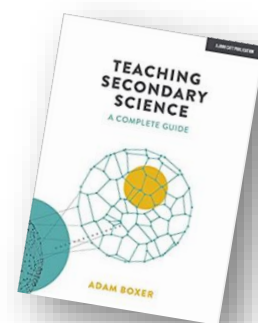

Monday 24 June 2024

Adam Boxer returns to Hampshire to deliver a follow up workshop, looking closely at key chapters from his book.

Adam Boxer

Adam is lead practitioner at The Totteridge Academy, London. He is also education director at Carousel Learning and delivers CPD nationally and internationally. Adam has written several books, most recently Teaching Secondary Science: A Complete Guide.

Returning to Hampshire for 2024, Lead Practitioner and Science Education Author Adam Boxer will lead a full day of CPD for secondary science teachers/heads of science, looking at all the various aspects of outstanding practice in the science classroom.

Based upon his best-selling book, Adam will lead delegates through all the various areas of practice involved in delivering impactful lessons in science.

This session is designed to be suitable for those who attended last year's workshop to continue to develop the approaches modelled in 2023 but is also suitable for teachers/heads of science who missed out last year.

The areas covered include:

- The art of modelling and explanations using blank canvas modelling
- Expert use of mini whiteboards for assessment
- Independent practice
- Review of material.
